HEADAPP

Secure communication is a strategic need for any business.

There are many ways of stealing sensitive data from mobile phones, within easy reach of everyone. Cellphone to cellphone and cellphone to desk calls can be intercepted without detection. Traditional telephony contains many vulnerabilities that can be exploited without detection.

HOW IT WORKS

BENEFITS OF SECURE COMMUNICATION

- Protection of strategic and confidential information as well as management communications can be handled securely via standard cellphones, yet protects commercially sensitive information.
- Increased business efficiency by saving time and money, confidential discussions can be managed by phone instead of face to face.
- Clients can be guaranteed 100% confidentiality.
- Conversation with staff in high-risk areas can be secured.

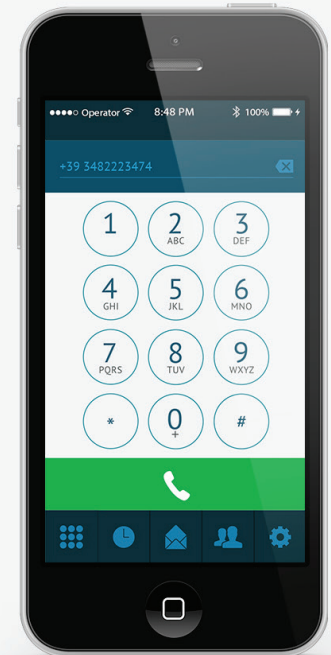

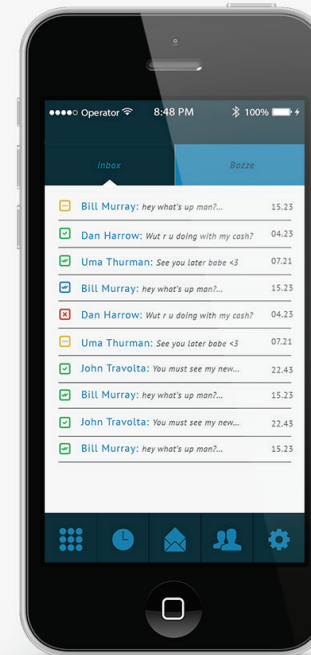

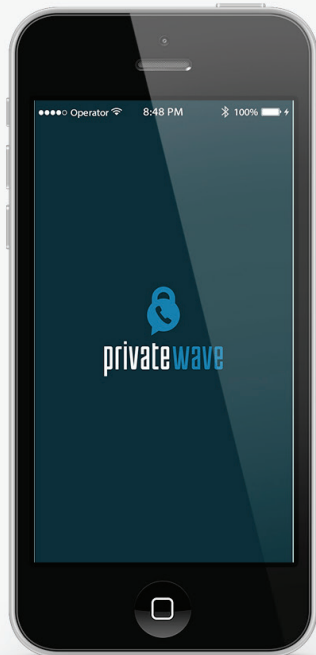

A voice communication can only be considered TOTALLY SECURE when supported by an INTEGRATED SYSTEM

- Integrated systems are less vulnerable to external attacks and thus create less of a vulnerability risk.
- Updating and repairing an integrated system is more efficient as it requires less expertise to control it.
- Communicating within an integrated system is easier to protect, and so provides worry free communication.

SCENARIOS

- Financial Institutions can offer total confidentiality as added value for private banking operations.
- Business secrets are secured through company's use of protected channels of communication.
- Law enforcement can assure communication confidentiality, reducing risk and increasing.
- Government and judiciary can protect case confidentiality and prevent information leakage.
- Telephone operators can offer the benefits of a secure conversation to the corporate market.
